Plan to Attend

Elkhart River Watershed Wetlands Protection and Restoration Workshop

The Elkhart River Watershed has lost over 70 percent of its wetlands in the last 200 years to dredging, draining or filling! Wetlands reduce flooding, filter sediment and prevent or reduce pollution. They are critical for some life stages of wildlife and water fowl.

Learn how private landowners can permanently protect their wetlands along with potential financial benefits they can receive. The Workshop will cover federal programs that offer technical and financial assistance for restoring wetlands lost due to draining or filling.
